

Be Flexible

(words and music Kurt E Hoffman 2012)

So you're thinking that you've been left out, and it's so oddly cold. And there's a good chance you think that life's been put on a big hold. Might be a need to be flexible and bend, who is your friend? Well just hold on for one moment, no one can, here, can keep you for ransom.

Hey you, hey you, hey you, Have a Good Day. Don't let one object get in your way. Have a good day. Don't let anyone get in your way.

You just found a prospective new job today, and your school loan has granted you one more grace day. Hey you, Have a good day, don't let these objects get in your way. Have a good day. Don't let anyone get in your way.

Are you thinking and dwelling about your jaded past? Is there even an inkling of what you can offer will last? Hmmm, hmm?

If I was ever to share with you, moving forward, ways I'd discuss, keep on improving within your own self for a deeper purpose.

Hey you, hey you, hey you, Have a Good Day. Don't let any body get in your way. Have a good day. Don't let these objects get in your way.

Have you recognized that I want to thank you today? Can you revel in all of your sports? You might have had an irregular day.

Have a good day. Don't let these objects get in your way.