

CHOICES

(Music created and arranged by Kurt E Hoffman)

(Words derived from a sonnet by Liz Mayberry)

Though I see you now, how can I ever know? Na, Na, Na, Na

Is this you or who you pretend to be? Na, Na, Na, Na

Are you caught up in how you think it should be? Na, Na, Na, Na

Are you someone who is looking to find the right door?

Are you someone that I can acknowledge more?

If everything was so much easier here, and it was all laid out for you,

You have choices; you must make, for all the wrong reasons.

Maybe you and I we're not so different now. Na, Na, Na, Na

We both think in one way and act in reverse. Na, Na, Na, Na

Things aren't always what they seem; that's my curse. Na, Na, Na, Na

We can't always say what we want, just keep it and bottle it all up inside.

We may choose to sacrifice, we may choose to empty or swallow our pride.

Do as you're told and respect, and hope that it all gets better soon.

I know someone just might kill for this life, then run, hide, just get away.

Don't blink your eyes; keep them both wide open, for all the right reasons.

Are you still OK? Can we all forget the pain? Na, Na, Na, Na

Oh...oh...how did we all get here?

And somehow get lost in this world!
